Sinopse

Hauntsville is a horror film about a husband and his family moving across the mid-west into a decent priced home to start a new job. The real estate agent did not inform the family on the past gruesome history of the home. The past residents unfortunately have been murdered inside the home and their spirits still lurks the premises long after their demise. The ghosts haunt the new family in an attempt to make them aware that their next door neighbor "Abe, 55 year-old disturbed man" is the real killer. Abe tries to make the family feel welcomed to the new neighborhood until one day he just loses it. There are two detectives on the case that have been trying to solve the mysterious deaths for years, but no leads have come up until now.
